6,900-Mile Hijacking Flight Ends In Rome

Crew Describes Youth As 'Potential Killer'

ROME (AP) — Crew members of the Trans World Airlines plane hijacked from California to Rome today described their armed hijacker as a gentlemanly young man who, one said, "just wanted to kill somebody or be killed."

The hijacker was identified as Rafael Minichiello, 20, an Italian-born naturalized American.

Talked About Cards

"We talked about playing cards and what he was going to do after he got to Rome," said hostess Tracy Coleman of Cincinnati, Ohio. "He wanted some one to come out, an official, and look him up so he could kill them, or else be killed."

"He didn't say who it was. He mentioned no individual at all. He didn't care who it would be. He just wanted to kill somebody or be killed," Miss Coleman said.

Hijacker Not Drunk

The youthful hijacker was not drunk, Miss Coleman said. "He mixed gin and Canadian Club. He only had two miniatures."

How did he act aboard the plane?

"Well, he was a pretty gentlemanly young man—except for his initial entry into the cockpit and for a short time at Kennedy Airport," Cook said.

"His behavior was extremely erratic. Sometimes he exhibited pretty good planning ability and other times his behavior was quite irrational."

Ironwood Girl Explains Gun Play On Plane

IRONWOOD, Mich. (AP) — "The last thing I saw was this man pointing a gun at Charlene's head," was the way Trans World Airlines hostess Roberta Johnson described the scene when she left a hijacked airliner at Denver Friday while another hostess remained as hostage.

Miss Johnson, 21, telephoned her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson of Ironwood, to tell them she was unhurt.

She told her parents that Charlene del Monico was the only hostess required to stay aboard with the flight crew when the passengers and other hostesses were released at Denver.

Miss del Monico, of New York, was released at Denver, however, and hostess Tracy Coleman of Cincinnati volunteered to stay with the plane. Miss Coleman was released safely when the plane landed in Rome Friday night, 18 hours after being seized in flight over California.

A WOL Marine Caught In Catholic Chapel

ROME (AP) — The youthful gunman who carried out the world's longest air hijacking — from California to Rome — was captured in a little country chapel today, nearly five hours after the hijacked jetliner landed in Rome.

Rome police identified their captive as Rafael Minichiello, who was charged by federal authorities in New York with air piracy, kidnapping and interference with commercial aircraft.

The hijacker had flown 6,900 miles in a five-stage journey across the United States, the Atlantic Ocean and Western Europe.

He was found this morning in the Sanctuary of Divine Love near the Appian way, about six miles outside Rome, just as 500 policemen were about to give up their manhunt.

At Rome police headquarters, Minichiello was questioned for about 45 minutes by detectives. He emerged looking calm, his hands no longer manacled.

After a meeting with Rome Police Chief Giuseppe Parlato, Minichiello was brought before reporters. He smiled and said, "Aw, go home."

"Why did you do it?" a newsmen asked.

He turned and said, "Why did I do it? I don't know."

Police said they would continue questioning the youth.

The intercontinental drama began at 4:42 a.m. Friday when a young man commandeered the plane en route to San Francisco from Los Angeles and ordered the pilot to fly to New York.

When told there was not enough fuel aboard to make the cross-country flight, the gunman—armed with a rifle—agreed to a refueling stop in Denver, Colo.

42 Leave Plane

At Denver, three stewardesses and the 39 passengers were freed, but three crewmen and a fourth stewardess flew on to New York with the hijacker.

The craft put down for refueling at New York's John F. Kennedy.

'Tell It To Hanoi'

Antimoratorium Plans Under Way

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A counter-offensive to Moratorium Day is being planned by war veterans who hope their project will spread across the United States.

Battle Cry Set

The code name: "Tell it to Hanoi."

The battle plan: Each member of a veterans' group will call five persons, asking each to call five more. Then on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, fly the American flag, burn headlights, turn on porch lights at night.

"We veterans have relaxed and stood by too long while a vocal minority threatens to destroy our nation," said the chairman, Harry Foster, a World War I veteran and past California commander of the American Legion.

Going To Speak Out

"We are now going to speak out. The veterans are past the point of being in the silent majority."

Opponents of U.S. policy in Vietnam sponsored Moratorium Day demonstrations across the country on Oct. 16 and have scheduled protests Nov. 15, 14 and 15.

National Effort

Besides the Legion, the groups participating in the San Diego meeting included the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Military Order of the World Wars, World War I Veterans, American Veterans of World War II, Disabled American Veterans, Res-tired Officers' Association, Reserve Officers, and Fleet Reserve Association.

The VFW is sponsoring a national effort Nov. 9-15 to show support of U.S. policies in Vietnam.

Worker Killed

FLINT (AP) — Richard Stern, 19, of Richmond, was injured critically Friday while completing his first day of work as a member of an oil drilling crew in Lapeer County.

He suffered severe head injuries when he was hit in the head by a falling casing pipe. He was rushed to St. Joseph Hospital in Flint.

Everyone Affected By Tax Reform Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee's tax reform bill, finished Friday after weeks of hearings and closed negotiations, contains something that would affect just about everyone.

"There is no major industry that will be untouched nor can it be said there is any individual that will be unaffected by it in one way or another," Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said after his committee completed its last formal session.

Like the House bill, the Finance Committee's effort would cut the government something like $2.4 billion by 1974, although the committee wants to delay part of the cuts in 1975 and 1976.

There are some of the specific ways the Finance Committee bill, the House bill and the Treasury recommendations compare in the areas of tax reform, which generally reduces the tax bite, and reform, which increases it.

Individual Data

Tax relief would eventually total about $8.9 billion, compared to $10.5 billion if one accepts the Treasury's method of figuring—and $9.4 billion for the Treasury's suggestion.

For individuals, it would come in several major areas:

—A flat tax rate cut averaging 5 per cent for all taxpayers. But the House would put half the cut into effect in 1971 and the other half in 1972, while the Finance Committee wants to put one-fourth of it into effect in 1971 and the remainder the following year. Treasury endorsed the reduction.

—A low-income allowance designed to remove 5.3 million poor families from the tax rolls was adopted, but the Finance Committee voted to cut the "phase-out" feature—which concentrates the allowance's effect in lower-income groups—by one-fourth in 1971. The purpose: To save money.

Single Persons Aided

—Six million single persons, and two million single, widowed or divorced taxpayers with dependents, would benefit from Finance Committee changes that follow Treasury recommendations but differ from the House measure.

Single persons would pay no more than 20 per cent higher taxes than married couples with the same income—down from a possible difference of 41 per cent now. Those with dependents would use a new head-of-household schedule halfway between the new single and current joint-return rate. The House measure.

Average Taxpayer Would Benefit Most

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Average Taxpayer and their two children, the mythical middle-American family making do on about $4,000 a year, will find their tax bill sliced in half by 1972 if the Senate Finance Committee's bill becomes law.

The committee recommended Friday, as the House did more than two months ago, that the government cut taxes up and down the income scale. But the effect is stronger where incomes are lower, and strengthened yet again by an administration innovation—the low income allowance.

In 1968 the nation's average income was $3,421. A married couple with two children would have paid $77 in taxes, including the 10 per cent surcharge. In 1972, after the surtax has expired, they will pay nothing.

The tax reductions, as listed on congressional tables, range to $683 for a family with $55,000 income—$4,888 this year, falling to $4,170 in 1972.

The savings are no less evident for single people, who will benefit from a new tax schedule designed to ease some of the heavier burden they have borne.

A big part of the tax help for poor families comes from the low income allowance, which will provide an additional tax reduction of up to $1,100. When incomes rise above the poverty line—which varies according to the size of the family—the allowance will be phased out by reducing it step by step as income increases.

Although all the tax savings will not take effect until 1972, there will be some reduction in 1971. The House planned to put half the cuts into effect in 1971 and half the next year, but the Finance Committee—an effort to be sure the lost revenues would not endanger the government's fight against inflation—decided to make one-fourth of the total effective in 1971 and three-fourths the next year.

Vicious Pranks Mar Halloween

By The Associated Press

Vicious pranks played on unsuspecting youngsters soured the Halloween tradition of trick-or-treat in several cities around the nation Friday.

Dangerous treats—food or candy containing concealed sharp objects—left authorities shocked and puzzled.

A 24-year-old boy in Middletown, N.Y., suffered cuts in the mouth when he bit into an apple that had been loaded with a razor blade.

Treats "Loaded"

Police in Columbus, Ohio, said many parents complained that their children had been given apples in which razor blades, hatpins, tooth pins, darning needles, paper clips, screws or nails had been concealed. No injuries were reported.

There were scattered reports of similar incidents received by Syracuse, N.Y., police. One report came from Mayor William F. Walsh whose daughter, Patricia, received a candy bar with a needle stuck inside.

Razor Blade Found

A father in Eliza, N.Y., discovered a razor blade in an apple when he was peeling it for his 5-year-old son.

"I've been in this racket for nearly 10 years now," said Madison County, N.Y., Dist. Atty. Spencer Feldmann, "and this is the most incredible thing I've run across."

Feldmann, whose office prosecutes perpetrators of such pranks, said persons at fault could be charged with second-degree reckless endangerment and face the possibility of a year in jail if convicted.

Wanda Finn Outlawed

One woman in central New York State said trick-or-treating should be outlawed.

"There's no telling what can happen. Someone as depraved as these people could easily whip up something with drugs or who knows what else. We're not even letting our kids out of the house this year."

In Las Vegas, Nev., thousands of youngsters stayed home after Mayor Oran Gragson urged parents to keep their children inside because of threats of disturbances throughout the city.

Weather

ESCANABA AND VICINITY: Cloudy and mild with occasional light rain or drizzle with high in the mid 40s. Cloudy and colder tonight with chance of snow. Spores, low in the 30s. Sunday's outlook—cloudy and colder with chance of snow. High in the lower 40s. Low on today at 3:00 p.m. and tomorrow at 7:00 a.m.

The U.S. Command said another Army UH1 was shot down 30 miles west of Da Nang near the Laotian border. There were no casualties but the aircraft was destroyed.

The two crashes brought the unofficial total of helicopters lost in the war to 1,131.

Four command and control helicopters have crashed this year in Vietnam with high probability of the aircraft being shot down.

D.U.S. Fund Drive To Climax Sunday

Delta County's annual plea to the hearts of givers for support of the volunteer agencies that serve the county's youth, its welfare needs and its health services, reaches a climax Sunday afternoon.

For the first time the young people of the county — senior students in its high schools for the most part — will conduct the final phase of the annual campaign.

Hundreds of students will make house-to-house calls for contributions to Delta United Services to complete the annual fund drive in a two hour blitz starting at 1:30 p.m.

The industrial, professional, commercial and other phases of the campaign have already been conducted, says Campaign Chairman John Bissell.

It is, however, impossible to reach everyone in the county, he said, and he asked that persons not contacted mail their contributions to Delta United Services, PO Box 79, Escanaba, Mich.

Give Day's Pay

It is being suggested that persons give a day's pay or the equivalent to support D.U.S., which finances Delta County youth, welfare and health agencies.

They are: The Red Cross Blood Bank, which provides free blood to Delta County persons in the local hospital or elsewhere; the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and Campfire Girls, the John F. Kennedy School for Retarded Children, Bay Cliff Health Camp, Delta Family Services, the Salvation Army, the U.P. Child Guidance Clinic and the United Service Organization.

The budgets which these agencies have presented to Delta United Services in order to finance their aid to the people of Delta County for the coming year total $65,000.

"We have not set a goal for this year's fund campaign," said DUS President Tom Strabel. "We hope, or course, to get the $65,000 needed to fund these fine services, but we have never made our goal yet in Delta County and I guess we're getting sensitive about failure. So we're not saying this year that we have to have $65,000 to keep all these good works going in Delta County in the next year, but that's what they'll cost and we hope that the good will of Delta County people will provide it."

Last Appeal

Chairman Bissell said "This is our last appeal for support and I think that it has special meaning this year because youth is taking such a big role. They want Delta County to be the finest anywhere and it simply can't be that unless we back the charitable volunteer services that mean so much to the young people of the community, so much to everyone's health and wellbeing, so much to those among us who need public help."

"No one can know when they're going to be on the list for need themselves, so it's a real insurance to support DUS. But even better than that it deserves support because it helps make the kind of community that cares about its people and that gives and works for them."

Students Plan 'Tutor' Program

By RICK ANDERSON
President, Student Government
Bay de Noc Community College

With the fall semester already past the halfway mark, activities at Bay de Noc Community College are well underway. In this and in future articles we, as students, hope to develop a closer relationship and understanding between college and community.

Perhaps the most important activity as far as the community and students are concerned is the proposed "tutorial program."

This program, which is only in the initial planning stage, would allow qualified students from Bay de Noc to assist children of lower grades from the area who are having problems with particular academic subjects in school.

Successful Elsewhere

It is understood that this also is the problem of teacher and parent, but many times parents and teachers do not have ample time to assist the student. Such programs have been shown to be very successful in other parts of the state and hopefully with the support of the community and area school system a program of this nature will become a permanent service offered by students at Bay de Noc.

With the Oct. 15 symposium on the War in Vietnam setting the stage for open discussions of this nature, other similar programs are being planned and discussed.

In the weeks to come discussion of such topics as drug abuse, sex education, and law enforcement may be held. These symposium discussions would provide students, faculty, and members of the community a chance to openly voice opinions on pressing controversial topics confronting conscientious citizens.

As Events Week

Of further interest to the students is the planned "all events week" to be held in early February. Activities would include such college competition as basketball, badminton, and the like, and would be culminated by the Bay de Noc Community College queen's pageant and a semi-formal dance.

With the Arts Committee now beginning to make plans students can be assured of some type of lecture, concert, or other programs of this nature in the near future. These programs are open to all registered students and at times members of the community.

These are but a few of the activities planned for the future at Bay de Noc, but they do show the necessity for a closer relationship and understanding between college and community. It is only by these two groups working together that further development is possible.

Mrs. B. Gero Dies Thursday

She is survived by one son, Ben of Decatur, Ill.; one daughter, Mrs. E. A. Ulrich of Lincoln, Ill.; one sister, Mrs. Ben Jacobs of San Diego, Calif. and five grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Kauffman and Jackson Funeral Home from 6 to 8 p. m. Sunday and funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home at 10 a. m. Monday. The Rev. William Brauer will officiate and burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Two Test Pilots Flee Plane Just Before Mishap

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The Air Force says an F111A fighter-bomber burst into flames just after its two occupants made an emergency landing and fled from the $6 million plane.

The two test pilots, Lt. Col. Jack W. Gillette and Jude R. McNamara, were not hurt.

An Air Force spokesman blamed a fuel leak for the trouble in the plane Friday.

Briefly Told

An All Souls Day Mass will be held at the Holy Cross Cemetery Chapel Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Palmdale Local 811 will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Eagles Hall. Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Eagles Hall.

Delta Lodge 196 F&AM will honor its past Masters with a dinner tonight in the Masonic Temple beginning at 6:30. Visiting Masons are welcome.

State Police issued a traffic citation Friday to Clifford Dawson, 1003 S. 14th St., Escanaba, for violation of restricted license.

Robert Kane, 41, 1413 2nd Ave. S., Escanaba, escaped injury Friday when the car he was driving struck and killed a deer on U. S. 3 in Masonville Township.

A marriage license application was filed recently at the county clerk's office by Thomas Edward Krickard, Neshah, Wis., and Peggy Sue Townsend, 1819 17th Ave. S., Escanaba.

Director Named For Girl Scout Council In U.P.

Mrs. Richard Potter, president of the Peninsula Waters Girl Scout Council, announced today that Mrs. Maude K. Herman has been named executive director of the Peninsula Waters Council, effective today.

She is being welcomed at a reception at a Marquette restaurant Monday as part of the annual meeting of the Council. Mrs. Herman brings wide experience with groups and Girl Scout Councils to her new position.

A native of Michigan, she grew up in Jonesville and attended Jackson Junior College, Michigan State University, West Texas University and Merrill Palmer Institute in Detroit.

She began working with youth and youth organizations in 1949 in Whiteside, Tex., at a home for neglected girls. In this position she served as a counselor and assistant director. She next served as field director for the present Irish Hills Girl Scout Council in Jackson. Her responsibilities include field organization, development of day camping programs, and work with the Senior Planning Board.

In 1963, Mrs. Herman became the executive director of

Tax Reform Bill Slated To Hit Nearly Everyone

House bill would allow single persons over age 35 to use the current head-of-household schedule.

In all, the reductions would mean that a family of four with taxable income of $7,500 a year would pay $975 in income tax when the bill becomes fully effective, compared to $987 now. A single person with the same income would pay $1,005 compared to $1,125.

5 Per Cent Surcharge

In the field of tax reform, the Senate committee: —Voted to extend the income tax surcharge through June 30 at 5 per cent, half the present rate. The administration asked for the extension, turning it essential to the battle against inflation.

—Voted to reduce the oil depletion allowance to 25 per cent. The House voted 20 per cent instead of the current 37 1/2 per cent rate, virtually insuring that this much-debated privilege will be trimmed.

—Both the Finance Committee and the House voted to repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit as the administration recommended, effective last April 15. The Senate bill, however, would give some relief in several heavy-spending industries and some specific companies that already had committed themselves to the major investments.

—Like the House, the Finance Committee accepted the idea of repealing unlimited charitable deductions and raising from 30 to 50 per cent of income the amount of charitable contributions deductible each year. Unlike the House, however, its bill would not tax the increase in value on stocks and other property in which a future interest is donated, and would not tax the increase in value of art objects given to museums.

—Cut the House's planned tax on foundations about in half, from 7 1/2 per cent of income to one-half of one per cent of total assets. It would allow these foundations to deduct their expenses on grants for voter registration drives.

This program is now on the verge of producing disease-resistant white pine seedlings for planting in the Lake States.

Sager's knowledge and initiative played a big part in the success of this program and he has become a recognized authority on it.

He also headed up the reforestation and timber stand improvement program on the Stowish National Forest. Many of the forest's 150,000 acres of plantation were planted under his guidance and supervision. Insect and disease problems on the forest also

U.P. Commercial Fishermen Given UMTA Support

ST. IGNACE — Actions of the Department of Natural Resources in raising standards for commercial fishermen threaten to put many out of business because they cannot afford the new equipment necessary, and the Upper Michigan Tourist Association is on record in the belief that men should not be legislated out of their right to gain a livelihood, backing this up with a resolution asking that such standards as are being imposed apply only to new businesses.

The association said it does not believe relief is necessary, however, to those who do some commercial fishing as a "moonlighting" project or take a commercial benefit out of their own sports fishing.

A resolution adopted at St. Ignace at the annual UMTA meeting asks that department exempt "established businesses" from the standards, with due regard to the need for anti-pollution and adherence to existing laws.

Association officials have heard evidence that the new standards will cause hardship for several fishing colonies in the Peninsula.

The Association also went on record favoring a four-lane highway for U. S. 8 east and west across the Upper Peninsula and in its resolution called upon the Michigan state highway commission to place this on its list of priorities.

body airport, but the hijacker got jittery and ordered the fueling operation halted. He fired a shot into the ceiling of the cockpit but did not seriously damage the plane. Two supervisory pilots with qualifications for making an overseas flight were added to the crew, and the hijacker ordered an immediate departure.

The Boeing 707 took off for the airport at Bangor, Maine, refueled there and went to Shannon, Ireland. It took on more fuel in a 20-minute stopover at Shannon, then continued to Rome.

Acts For Car

The young gunman called for the police chief to come aboard the plane unarmored and have a car waiting outside. He seized Pierre Gail, chief of the airport police, and they drove away in a car, followed by another car full of policemen.

When Gail and the hijacker were outside the city, the young man stopped the car and halted into the down-hill countryside.

The priest who called police to the cemetery said Minichello almost got away. Don Ellis said the first time he alerted two policemen to the youth's presence, they told him his dress did not fit the description and walked away. Only after another priest reported having seen the youth dressed differently earlier did the police take the matter seriously, Don Ellis said.

When Minichello left the church, he was wearing a white shirt and blue trousers. But he earlier was reported wearing plaid Bermuda shorts in the chapel. Some reports said he apparently had taken off his trousers and was wearing undershorts.

Little Improvement Seen Likely In Deer Habitat

ST. IGNACE — Giving delegates to the annual meeting of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association here an insight into problems and programming of the Department of Natural Resources, Doris J. Curry, regional manager for the department, said that little can be done now to improve existing conditions for Upper Peninsula deer herds because of the large stands of hardwood.

"Look at the average forest floor of hardwood acreage and it is lean, mostly leaves," he said. "Deer need new growth to feed on and hardwood acreages are a veritable biological desert."

"About all we can do as far as these acreages are concerned is wait until timber reaches merchantable age, then we have to consider improved harvesting plans which keep the timber coming along all the time."

"To provide optimum deer range and habitat to provide adequate conditions for deer herd propagation we need to burn slash and create a primary forest, but none of this is going to happen, he continued."

"The economics involved cannot justify requests to feed deer in other ways. We can assist where possible, but we cannot go to the legislature for funds that will provide feeding of deer through other than natural resources."

Work On Fisheries

Expressing appreciation for the programs and aims of the tourist association, Curry pointed out that after many years of inactivity the department has undertaken to develop fisheries in the Great Lakes and the dramatic growth of coho is only one indication.

He said that stream and inland lake improvements are being continued but need further funds to do an adequate job. Chemical improvement programs to eliminate stunted or unwanted species in small lakes, and stream improvement to prevent and halt pollution will continue to demand the attention of the department.

The development of major goose concentration areas are proposed south of Chassell in the Sturgeon River area; in the Muskegon Bay area, near the AuTrain Basin, the Baraga Plains and the Hayward Lake region in Menominee County. The Hayward Lake area will be a joint venture between the state natural resources department and U.S. Fish and Wildlife.

Four Proposals

Four proposals are in the making now as biologists continue to develop small water impoundments to improve waterfowl habitat.

"We have begun," he said, "a very modest program of constructing grouse hunter walking trails, and hope to step up efforts along this line. These trails will tend to draw grouse to open and needed avenues, to make them more available to the hunter. Controlled burning and a new tool, a rolling chopper, to improve feeding, may work for the elimination of herbicides, some of which have adverse side effects on grouse."

As regards fishing, the department recognizes that adequate sports fisheries not only have their own direct benefits but make for substantial economic return for those providing goods and services, Curry observed. Resurgence of steelhead and brown trout illustrate Michigan's Great Lakes can provide a tremendous economic benefit if properly managed.

Improvements Needed
The department is working for both cold and warm water fish hatcheries, lake and stream reclamation, habitat protection and public access facilities. Much expansion has been forestalled because of the emphasis being given coho in the Great Lakes, and habitat protection and management have been at a standstill during this period.

"We need to resume," Curry stated, "the improvement program similar to that of a few years ago. Watershed improvement and preservation programs are being initiated and a request for $300,000 has been made for this purpose. One important facet of this program is the constant erosion of access sites, stream banks, and people activity. This is a costly but a necessary program."

Growing recreational demand, Curry concluded, dictate the need for better and more access locations. These involve both Great Lakes and inland waters, as well as stream boating access and wild frontage access to trout streams.

Wounded Vet Held In Death Of Young Wife

SHIRLEY, Mass. (AP) — Army Spec. 4 Roger P. Drugich, 21, of Marysville, Mich., was arrested Friday evening on a charge of murder in the death of his wife Gloria, 20, of Port Huron, Mich., police said today.

A wounded veteran of the Vietnam war, Drugich was a patient at the Ft. Devens station hospital prior to his arrest.

Mrs. Drugich's body was found by Shirley police early Thursday morning in a trailer park off Front Street, near an entrance to Ft. Devens.

The Associated Press had reported erroneously that Drugich was arrested Thursday night. Shirley Police Chief Anson D. Sebel said Drugich was arrested about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

The soldier was arrested by Sebel and Lt. William Irving and Sgt. Steven Obertuck, detectives attached to the office of Middlesex County Dist. Atty. John J. Droney.

Drugich pleaded innocent at an arraignment in Ayer District Court before Judge David B. Williams. The court held the soldier without bail, continued the case to Dec. 5 and ordered him to Gardner State Hospital for 35 days' observation.

Latin Profile Nearing End

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has scrapped the ambitious goals of the Alliance for Progress in favor of a policy that will lower substantially the United States profile in Latin America.

Issuing his long-awaited Latin American policy statement Friday night, Nixon said the future United States role in the inter-American alliance will be that of a partner rather than a leader.

Nixon indicated his new policy would treat all Latin governments—democracies and dictatorships alike—as equals.

"We must deal realistically with governments in the inter-American system as they are," he said.

The remark was viewed as an admission that past United States efforts to use its diplomatic and economic influence to encourage representative democracy have not worked. Well over half of all Latin Americans now live under military dictatorships.

While offering "no grandiose promises and no panaceas," Nixon did propose changes in two areas which have been the subject of frequent Latin complaints—U.S. trade and aid policies.

He promised to lead a "vigorous effort" to reduce non-tariff barriers to trade maintained by nearly all industrialized nations and to support the establishment, within the inter-American system, of regular procedures for advance consultation on all trade matters.

He said U.S. loan dollars could now be used for purchases in Latin America as well as the United States. Under previous policy, virtually all loans were required to be spent in the United States only.

Leslie Uggams Show Slated For Television Axe

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS plans to cancel the Leslie Uggams show, the first television variety series to star a black hostess, because of low ratings, reliable sources say.

The network will move the Glen Campbell show into the Uggams Sunday night slot on Dec. 21. It will fill Campbell's current Wednesday night period with "Hew Lett," a sort of country "Laugh-In."

Announcement of the changes is expected at a CBS affiliates advisory board meeting in Nassau, the Bahamas, next Tuesday or Wednesday. Confirmation of the changes was obtained from sources in the advertising community.

The Uggams show fared poorly in the ratings against NBC's extended "Romance" and the ABC Sunday movies.

Writer Claims

Politicians Lack Sense Of Humor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Politicians lack a sense of humor, the West German writer Helmut Lindemann says in an article published by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—UNESCO.

Dictators, he adds, are completely humorless. Lindemann singles out Winston Churchill as the only recent top-flight leader with a sense of humor. He suggests a Nobel Prize for humor in international relations, to be awarded by a panel of humorists.

The current issue of the UNESCO quarterly Impact of Science on Society is devoted to what it calls the science of humor and the humor of science. One article cites a "Murphy's law" saying that "If anything can go wrong, it will" and a Gordon's law: "If a research project is not worth doing at all, it is not worth doing well."

These entries are from a tongue-in-cheek publication called Journal of Irreproducible Results, published by Dr. Alexander Kohn, head of the department of biophysics at the Israel Institute of Biological Research. In addition to new "scientific" laws, such as Murphy's and Gordon's, it likes to publish sayings with a scientific theme. Examples:

"Half-baked ideas of people are better than ideas of half-baked people."

"Psychocramics is the science that deals with crackpots."

One of the more serious contributions to the UNESCO symposium is a study by French psychologist David Victoroff. He found that soldiers and firemen love all forms of humor but prefer sex jokes, teachers like absurd stories best and largely disapprove of sex jokes, and students prefer take-offs.

Victoroff believes humor might avoid many of the world's outbreaks of violence. He says: "One can only feel happy at the thought that a subtle understanding of laughter and a sharp sense of humor will one day provide a release for aggressivity and make milder any and all demonstrations of political passion."

The Kates Bay Home Ec. Club met Thursday evening at the Edward Paulson home in Kates Bay. Members came dressed in costume and the best costume prize was awarded to Mrs. Richard Besudre. Games and lunch, all in the Halloween theme were enjoyed. Guest award was presented to Mrs. Byron Hazel. On Tuesday, Nov. 4, members will attend the Christmas Bazaar at the Bethany Lutheran Church in Escanaba. The Kates Bay group will sponsor a, "Pie Walk," at the affair. Everyone is welcome.

Powers-Spalding Handi-Helpers

At a recent meeting members of the Handi-Helpers 4-H Club prepared the dinner menu planned at a previous meeting. Following the dinner there was an evaluation as to the appropriateness of the meal, top and oven cooking and the results. After the cleanup project arts and crafts were discussed and the decision was made to make candles as the first project.

At the next meeting, Thursday, Nov. 6, the younger girls will sew and the older girls will have a discussion on, "Management and You."

No Evidence Of Pins In Apples, Police Report

Halloween has come and gone, accompanied by disquieting reports of children receiving treats into which potentially dangerous objects had been inserted.

One of these reports was from Gladstone, but police there today said they have no evidence to support a complaint of pins or needles being placed in apples.

"There was only one actual complaint," said Patrolman Carlton A. Mineau of the Gladstone police force.

"Some youngsters came to the police station about 8 p. m. Thursday and said they had been given an apple with a pin in because they saw a hole where it had been pushed in," he reported. "The younger girl took the apple and went back and threw it at the house. There is no evidence of any kind and you just don't go to a house and accuse people of something like that."

Other Reports
"But I thought if things like that may be going on, children should be warned, so I called the radio station at Escanaba and they put it on the air," Patrolman Mineau said.

The parents of the children who came to the station have not been informed of the incident as yet, and Patrolman Mineau said he was thinking of calling the children back this afternoon to talk with them further.

"If there was a pin in an apple it may have been caused by the apple rolling off a table and hitting something," the officer added.

After the warning had been on the radio, Gladstone police received another call to report that a seven-year-old boy had found a pin in a candy bar. There was no further investigation of this nor was the evidence turned over to police.

Other Gladstone police officers told of receiving information that a laxative gum was suspected of having been given to children, but whether the gum was really laxative has not been confirmed.

Bulletin On TV

Officer Mineau said a Marquette TV station telephoned him last night to inquire about the complaints. "I told them what had happened and asked them not to blow it up because we had not really seen any apples with pins or needles in them," he reported.

State Police of the Gladstone post said they were aware of the reports received by Officer Mineau but they had not been asked to assist in the investigation.

Escanaba city police reported they had not received complaints of such character from any source.

In Michigan there were complaints of potentially dangerous objects included in treats for children, reports the Associated Press.

Kalamazoo police were reported as saying they had received several reports of pins and pieces of glass in candy and apples. A pill taken from a piece of candy is being analyzed to determine its contents.

In Waterford Township near Pontiac, police said residents reported finding razor blades in fruit and candy and crushed glass in bubble gum; and similar reports were received by police in the Bay City-Saginaw area.

Unheated Slum Mystery Nears 'Boiling Point'

DETROIT (AP)—The mystery of who owns an unheated slum apartment house on Detroit's near west side may soon be solved—but the likelihood is nobody may be living there by then.

Frederick Yates, a Wayne County supervisor, said Friday that he soon will own the property along with a group called the Linwood Improvement Association.

But county officials, who have declared the property unfit to live in, said they expect to move the last four families, including 11 children, out of the structure this weekend.

Tenants last Wednesday sued three individuals and an insurance company in Wayne County Circuit Court, seeking $10,000 in damages for each of 20 tenants and improvements in the building.

Among the improvements sought was heat. The building has been unheated this fall.

John S. Cook Jr., a Wayne County supervisor who was among those sued, claimed he was not responsible for the building. He said his mother, Mrs. Juanita Shaw, who also was sued, sold the building recently. Cook said he didn't know who the buyer was.

Also sued was Mrs. Carol A. Mason who owned the property at one time and the Supreme Life Insurance Co., holder of a mortgage on the structure.

Yates says he doesn't yet have the deed.

But when he gets it, he said, he plans to do whatever is necessary to put the building in shape, including bringing in a supply of coal to turn on the heat.

Nahma

St. Paul's Episcopal Guild will meet Tuesday evening, Nov. 4 at 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Emily Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz have returned from a trip to Bay City, Mich., where they visited with Mrs. Schwartz's sister, Mrs. Ivan Spriggs and family.

Roy Cole and Dan Gilmore of Anderson, Ind., are staying at the Hospitality House while visiting in Nahma.

Russell Hominger and son Robbie of Valparaiso, Ind., visited with Mr. Hominger's mother, Mrs. William Hominger.

Mrs. Clara Ritter has returned from Taylor, Mich., where she visited with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Popour and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Gerreau have returned from a trip to Green Bay, where they visited with their children. Grandson Jimmy Gerreau accompanied them home for a visit.

Auto Body Shops Victims Of Collective Boycotts?

DETROIT (AP) — Auto body repair shops and insurance companies are engaging in a disorienting — bill padding merry-go-round that hurts everyone, Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., said Thursday.

Hart, speaking before the fourth annual convention and trade show of the Auto Body Association of America, said insurance companies use collective boycotts against those auto body shops which do not grant large discounts.

Those who grant the discounts turn around and pad their bills in order to make a profit, Hart contended.

"It doesn't benefit the insurance companies nearly as much as they think," he said.

Hart said his Senate subcommittee investigating auto repairs has "solid evidence" that body shop operators paid bills for work which is not performed in order to make up for the high discounts.

"No one argues with an insurance company's right to shop around and negotiate, but when collective boycotts are employed against owners who don't fall into line, then the matter ought to be looked into and we are doing so," Hart said.

Hart's allegations of collective boycotts was countered by Edward Daniels, general manager of the insurance exchange of the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Time To Reverse

The Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission which met in Escanaba this week has broad powers to control and regulate air pollution in the state, but don't look for an immediate cleansing of the state's atmosphere. It just doesn't work that way.

Throughout Michigan, there are thousands of sources of air contamination ranging from backyard incinerators to the greatest industrial stacks. And there is no way in the world — aside from closing everything and slapping a total ban on all burning, smoking, driving, etc. that could control air pollution overnight. Even that wouldn't work 100 per cent as pollutants from bordering states still would drift across Michigan's borders.

Instead, air pollution — for that matter all environmental pollution — while of growing concern to increasing numbers of people in Michigan and the United States is something which must be attacked on all fronts gradually and the nation must pray it will be in time.

The problems in controlling pollution are enormous, financially and technically. In many instances, including some right in the Upper Peninsula, the cost of solving the problem is far greater than the value of the equipment.

For the City of Escanaba to install air pollution control equipment on its asphalt plant, for example, the city would have to spend more money than it paid for the plant some 15 years ago. The same is true at Iron Mountain and in other communities in the U. P.

Industrially, installation of expensive equipment which would solve the problem would not many firms right out of business and John Sost of the Michigan Dept. of Public Health, acting chairman of the commission, says that's not what the commission is trying to do. The state law itself provides the authority for the commission to approve "variances" with the statute, suspending enforcement of the law when compliance "would constitute an undue hardship on the person and would be out of proportion to the benefits to be obtained thereby."

The problem facing the commission and the nation is in determining what constitutes "hardship" situations, when compliance would be "out of proportion" to the benefit. Industrialists say there must be a balance of some sort between pollution control and economics. The conservationists will argue on the other hand that with 142 million tons of contaminants being released into the air, countless gallons of dirty water spilling into the lakes and streams and 3.5 billion tons of waste being generated each year, the environmental battle is being lost and unless controls are instituted there will be no need to call for a balance.

The situation in some respects is not unlike the Supreme Court's school desegregation case in 1954.

In the famous Brown vs. Board of Education decision the court ruled that segregation violated the equal protection guarantee of the Constitution, but gave local school districts in the south latitude to comply with the decision because of the social consequences, primarily the possibility of violence, which might erupt if integrated classrooms were required immediately. The court's guidelines allowed local school boards to proceed with integration plans "with all deliberate speed" in recognition of those consequences.

Several days ago, the court decided that local boards had taken enough time. They ordered integration now.

Hopefully, the environmental pollution case will not proceed along the same route. Scientists have warned that unless controls are instituted on all forms of pollution — air, water, temperature, etc. — the life of the earth is limited and the people will be choked by their own wastes.

The time to reverse this course is now. By the time it is determined that the "deliberate speed" is too slow, it may be too late.

Subsidize The SST?

President Nixon recently recommended that construction of the SST, the supersonic transport plane, be heavily subsidized by the federal government.

Some essential facts about the aircraft appear to have been hastily considered or not considered at all in reaching this decision.

The SST is unrelated to national defense. It is strictly intended for commercial civilian use.

The SST is, in fact, a luxury liner for transoceanic travel. Its virtue is speed. With a top speed of 1,800 miles per hour, it would trim three hours of travel time between New York and Paris. But, at the projected ticket rates, few Americans would ever ride on it.

The SST promises sonic booms over areas as much as 50 miles wide. More than just a nuisance, it could cause considerable property damage.

Some environmental experts warn of the possible effect of SST exhausts on natural life and the earth's weather. Some say the fumes might accumulate faster than they could dissipate, possibly causing an increase in temperatures over a period of years.

The giant SST poses additional air-control problems at a time when many airports cannot handle present aircraft properly. Recent jet crashes have stirred controversy about possible deficiencies in radar and other guidance equipment. The crash of an SST, with as many as 300 passengers on board, would make these recent tragedies seem insignificant by comparison.

Finally there is the question of economics. On the theory that the SST otherwise will not be built, the federal government would invest $1.2 billion over the next three years — and no doubt more later.

But the market operates according to supply and demand, and there appears very little demand for the SST.

It is a fact that President Nixon, having championed the forgotten American taxpayer, now recommends this expenditure of public funds. Why not take another look?

Double Standard Goes For Tax Exemption Too

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Max Lerner, a columnist and an old friend, has unaccountably included me in a list of conservative commentators who have applied a double standard to the Abe Fortas and Judge Clement Haynsworth cases. But the fact is that I have never written about either man.

I never felt I was privy to Abe Fortas's motives in accepting a Wolfson Foundation check which could very well have been an honest retainer for services unconnected with his Supreme Court activities. As for Judge Haynsworth, he was an utterly new name to me when Nixon proposed him for the Court, and I was out of the country when the squabble over his stock portfolio was big news.

I do, however, know a lot about the double standard, and, since Max Lerner has been challenging William Buckley, David Lawrence, Russell Kirk and other conservative writers to apply the same ethical criteria in judging the Haynsworth and Fortas cases, let me challenge Max to look at the double standard which his liberal friends follow when they discuss tax exemption.

For various reasons, mostly connected with the increased tax bite as it affects all of us, the foundations and the churches have been under fire for using tax-exempt income to affect political legislation. The attack on tax-exempt organizations has been vastly overdone. But if there is to be a new law to deal with special interest lobbies, it ought to hit at those who really use tax-exempt money to put their political friends in office.

I am writing specifically for Max Lerner's liberal colleagues to put a laurel wreath on the head of Sen. Paul Fannin of Arizona for submitting a proposed tax reform amendment that would deny tax exemption to labor unions that use compulsory dues for political purposes.

Sen. Fannin has had the courage to recall the "Banks case" in connection with his tax reform amendment. Hal Banks, a former head of the Canadian branch of the Seafarers Union, had been convicted in Canada of hiring a man to beat up an official of a rival union. He jumped bail and fled to the U. S., where he was arrested aboard a Seafarers Union yacht.

When an attempt was made to extradite him on a perjury charge, Secretary of Labor William Wirtz and President George Meany of the AFL-CIO wrote letters to Secretary of State Dean Rusk asking that extradition proceedings be halted. Rusk complied, saying that "a man has a right to protect his own innocence."

Fannin doesn't criticize Rusk's view of the law. But he wondered the other day, in a blistering statement, about the $100,000 in separate campaign checks that, right after Rusk's decision, began to pour into various Democratic Presidential campaign committees treasuries around the country. They came from Seafarers Union officials, who split the $100,000 into 20 checks for $5,000 each.

Fannin's point was that if the foundations and churches are to be denied tax exemption on the ground that they are sometimes engaged in trying to influence legislation, unions that put up big funds to elect their candidates should get the same impartial treatment in a tax reform bill.

As a matter of record, some good liberals see it this way. Said Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, in a 1961 decision: "If . . . union dues or assessments are used to elect a Governor, a Congressman, a Senator, or a President . . . a selective use of union funds for a political purpose subordinates the individual's First Amendment rights to the views of the majority" in the union.

Douglas objected to this compulsion on the individual union member "to finance political projects against which he may be in rebellion."

This is the true liberal voice speaking.

But why aren't the liberal commentators rushing to support the Fannin amendment to the tax reform bill? If the conservatives have been following a double standard in the Fortas-Haynsworth stand-off, the liberals have also been following one in the case of tax reform as it applies to foundations and unions.

Future Plans Of SDS Under Close Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP)—Efforts of Students for a Democratic Society to create high school disturbances in Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania were linked this week to what some SDS leaders called a worldwide war against U.S. imperialism.

The House Committee on Internal Security was told that some of the tactics for high school disturbances were planned at an SDS Midwest regional conference in Cleveland in August.

The committee was shown an interview filmed during that conference in which three national SDS leaders talked about plans to "bring the war against imperialism home."

"What we're gonna do, what we are doing," said National SDS Secretary Mark Rudd in the interview, "is taking kids, kids like us, kids like—working kids, lots of kids, kids in schools, joining them together, getting them to fight."

The national SDS secretary, Bill Ayres, of Ann Arbor, said in the film that the fight must be violent, and added: "Vietnam has showed the world, has showed us that you can beat that imperialist army, that you can beat it, that you can win."

The interview was conducted by a reporter for station WJW-TV, Bob Franken, in Cleveland Aug. 30. The tape was subpoenaed by the House committee, which is investigating SDS activities.

A committee investigator, Neil E. Wettersman, told the committee the views were those of one faction, not necessarily of the entire SDS, which has been splitting into groups.

The committee has been told that SDS efforts to disrupt activities and recruit pupils at high schools failed.

The bidding:

Opening lead—king of spades. You run into all kinds of good, bad and indifferent players wherever you go. Some bid well; but play badly; others bid badly and play well; some bid and play well; others bid and play badly.

If you accept as gospel the testimony of their partners, this last category is by far the most numerous group of all. Maybe Lincoln had bridge players in mind when he said that God must love the common people, since he made so many of them.

The declarer in this deal was obviously from the class that play their cards well. We could not clearly see his bidding from just this one hand—though he did open a notrump with 15 points instead of the customary 16—but perhaps he always threw in a point for good measure when he thought he'd be declared.

North, playing the Stayman convention, responded two clubs and thus discovered the heart fit. West led the king of spades.

South took the ace, played a low heart to the king, and a low club back. East followed low and South won with the queen. After cashing the Q-A of hearts, declarer led another club from dummy. East grabbed the ace and returned a club, won by the king.

South still had two spades and a diamond to lose, but by this time he was sure he'd make the contract. He knew that East had no more spades, for East would surely have returned a spade, rather than a club, if he had one. West's hand thus became an open book. He had started with six spades and had also shown up with two hearts and three clubs. Hence, he had at most two diamonds.

So South cashed the A-K of diamonds and ended with a spade. West cashed his two spades, but then has to yield a ruff and discard.

TV Antenna Job Costs Two Lives

BANGOR (AP)—A 36-year-old Bangor man and his son-in-law were electrocuted Friday when a television antenna they were installing on a house trailer touched power lines carrying 7,500 volts, State Police reported.

Troopers at the South Haven post, identified the victims as Arthur Earl Connell, 35, of Bangor and his son-in-law, Richard Thomas Gumberson, 28.

Both men were dead when state troopers and Van Buren County sheriff's deputies could reach the scene.

Mrs. Connell was hospitalized in Grand Rapids when the accident happened.

State police and county sheriff's deputies are still searching for the cause of the accident.

Ann Landers: Five-Drinking Club Shrs Up Bubbles

Dear Ann Landers: I am dating a very attractive young man. Ed is 21 and has already had three years of college. One thing about him worries me. He can drink everybody in the party under the table and not show it. Last night for example, he had five highballs then switched to beer. Before the evening was over Ed had finished seven bottles. The other two fellows were gassed out of their minds, but Ed was in complete control.

Ed is very proud of the way he holds his liquor. I don't think this is anything to be proud of. But since he shows no ill effects, what can I say? He drinks like that almost every night. I am worried about him, Ann, because he usually skips dinner and says he gets all the nourishment he needs from the grain in the alcohol and the malt in the beer. Please check with your medical consultant and tell me what they say. — Ed's Girl

Dear Girl: Ed may be able to tell you his drinking is not harmful, but after a few years he'll have to come up with a better story for his liver.

Dear Ann Landers: My grandfather is 79 and very spry. He has always been in good health until last year when he developed a rupture. The doctor said he should have surgery. Grandma is 71 and has always ruled everybody with an iron hand. She says the Bible states clearly that a full life is three score and ten and that Grandpa has already had nine years more than he is entitled to. Grandma insists that Grandpa would be going against God's will by having an operation at his age because he would then be trying to get more years than God intended. What can we do about it? — K and J

Dear K and J: This decision should be made by the doctor. And since the doc has suggested surgery, Grandpa should have it.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this for the whole family to see. It might set a few people straight.

A close relative of mine and her husband take a trip every year, either to Europe or the Orient. For the past five years they have gathered their three children and their spouses together on the eve of their departure. The purpose — to read their wills aloud.

They go down the list of stocks, bonds, real estate, jewelry — "Five hundred shares of Johnson and Johnson to William. Three hundred shares of Transamerica to Kenneth — my diamond ring goes to Selma, my pearls go to Julia. — etc."

My husband and I travel alone, and we have our will made out, but we see no reason for the ritual. Can it be that Mom and Pop are seducing the Will? What do you think? — Washington

Dear Wash: I think there is no harm in reading wills. What bothers me is why does it both-or YOU. You are in no way involved in the "ritual."

Dear Ann Landers: I caught my husband taking some little orange pills on the sly. He said he had a slight kidney infection and hadn't wanted to worry me. I suspect he might have something else — like a social disease. I have had no symptoms but he looks so guilty. I wonder if I might have something. Needless to say this has not helped our love life much. What should I do? — Mrs. Cumber

Dear Cuck: Go to a doctor for an examination. If you need treatment, you must get it at once. If you don't, you'll have set your mind at ease.

Shotgun Blast Fatal To Boy, 10

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP)—A 10-year-old rural Mount Clemens boy was killed Thursday by a shotgun blast as he listened to records with his older brother.

Douglas G. Maxwell was struck by a blast from a shotgun fired accidentally by his 17-year-old brother Gerald, police said. Gerald told police he picked up the gun from a bed to put it away and it fired.

He said he thought the gun, which he had used for hunting the day before, was unloaded.

About 1,700,000 vacationers visit Mount Rushmore annually.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

CYCLAMATES?

Diet Pepsi can do better without them

Soon you will be enjoying a new, better-tasting Diet Pepsi-Cola with a "touch" of real sugar and no cyclamates.

Recently there have been some unsettling news reports about the artificial sweeteners (calcium and sodium cyclamate) used in most low-calorie beverages and a number of other food products. In effect, the reports related possible health hazards to human beings that could result from the consumption of cyclamates.

Although the sweetener has up to now enjoyed approval by the Federal Food and Drug Administration, no consumer should be asked to worry or wonder about the food or drink she buys for herself or her family. This is especially true of soft drinks which people buy for pleasure more than nutrition.

A New Diet Pepsi

Diet Pepsi-Cola, which has become the nation's most popular diet cola, was formulated in part of cyclamates and was so labeled. But Pepsi-Cola Company cannot in good conscience offer its customers any products about which even the remotest doubt exists.

We have immediately formulated a completely new Diet Pepsi which is not only free of cyclamates, but which tastes noticeably better than our previous product. The secret is sugar—pure, natural sugar—but an amount so insignificant that people who watch their weight will be drinking and enjoying a true diet cola. And new Diet Pepsi offers a genuine cola taste remarkably similar to Pepsi itself.

Is It Safe For Diabetics?

For some people even a teaspoon of sugar is considered harmful. We are carefully labeling new Diet Pepsi cartons and wraps in bold type (see above) to warn diabetics and other persons who must restrict their intake of sugar that the new product has SUGAR ADDED. If you are such a person, we suggest you drink new Diet Pepsi only after consulting your doctor.

Where And When Can You Get It?

We are moving just as fast as production and distribution facilities permit. Within a few weeks, people in this area will begin noticing our new Diet Pepsi cartons in their favorite stores. You will recognize them by a bright yellow band containing the words: SUGAR ADDED—NO CYCLAMATES! The same band appears on the label of non-returnable bottles. And, the phrase appears in a red-outline rectangle on the back of Diet Pepsi cans.

What About Other Diet Cola Brands?

We believe and we hope that other soft drink companies—making diet colas or other diet flavors—will follow Pepsi-Cola's lead by developing cyclamate-free beverages. Obviously, we take some satisfaction in our own readiness and technical skill. But, the soft drink industry as a whole has never been reluctant to modify its products for the benefit of its customers.

NEW DIET PEPSI. TRY IT...SOMEONE WILL BE WATCHING!

Narcotics Probe Brings Charges Against 3 Men

Formal charges have been made against three young men for possession or control of marijuana in the continuing investigation of narcotics by Escanaba city police.

Latest warrant authorized by Prosecuting Attorney John R. Beauchamp, Delta County prosecuting attorney, is against John Carl Broderesen, 19, who was still a patient in St. Francis Hospital this morning.

Broderesen suffered superficial injuries about 9 a.m. Thursday when under the influence of LSD, police officers said.

The youth, on a "bad trip" from LSD taken about 5 a.m. Thursday, dashed through a plate glass door at 714 Ludington St. and fell on the sidewalk as police officers arrived.

In response to a summons from Broderesen's companions.

Taken into custody and charged with possession or control of marijuana were Stanley W. Hojnacki, 20, and Edward Soull, 18, who came to Escanaba recently from Oneonta, N.Y. They occupied an apartment in the rear of a commercial building at 714 Ludington St., and told officers they planned to open a record and novelty shop.

In District Court on Friday their bond was set at $500 for their appearance for preliminary hearing. The court is to appoint an attorney to represent them. At the hearing it will be determined if they are to be bound to Circuit Court for trial on the charge which carries upon conviction a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison.

Broderesen came to Escanaba recently from Norway, Mich., and had been living in a motel at Gladstone. He is a 1968 graduate of Iron Mountain-Kingsford High School.

Prosecutor Beauchamp said that at this time there is no evidence to indicate that other than the three young men are involved here, and that the narcotics had been obtained outside of Michigan.

Drive Workers Earn Praises

The chairman of the Township and Rural section of the Delta United Services fundraising appeal, David O. Farrand of Escanaba, today praised his committee for work in the annual drive to raise funds for 11 community-service organizations.

Farrand said the willingness of these people to serve and to organize their communities was most encouraging.

"These individuals are all busy, yet were able to donate part of their time for this good cause," he said. "Their communities should be very proud of them and of the others who worked in the campaign."

The Township and Rural solicitation was directed by Wally Thorsen, Bay de Noc; George Weingartner, Rock; Mrs. Mildred Stenlund, Masonville and Rapid River; Leo J. Brunelle, Flat Rock; Mrs. Harold Gustafson and Mrs. Robert Olsen, Ensign area, and Mrs. Harold Woodard, Cornell.

Farrand also expressed gratitude to the high school students in the Bark River, Schaffter, Perronville and Hyde areas who have worked to organize the door-to-door residential canvases scheduled Sunday.

Farrand, who is the industrial development specialist for the Upper Peninsula Committee on Area Progress, said that without the support of people who are willing to serve their communities charities or other worthy institutions would find it very difficult to exist.

Carter's Car Doesn't Dive

MACKINAW CITY — The rusted station wagon that was the first non-official car to cross the Mackinac Bridge came to the end of its road at 108,000 miles Friday.

But not as Al Carter, a Chicago drummer, had hoped—by plummeting into the Straits of Mackinac nearly 200 feet below the bridge's center span.

The car ended its days as a display near a commemorative sign heavily limped at the north end bridge approach.

Carter, pleased by Friday's brief ceremonies—yet not immensely satisfied when bridge officials would not drop the car into the straits—will return to Chicago Saturday by bus.

Eventually the car might become part of a museum planned by the Mackinac bridge authority.

Immediate Ban On DDT Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group headed by former Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udell petitioned the government Friday to ban immediately use of DDT as a pesticide.

The group calls itself the Environmental Defense Fund. A spokesman at a news conference said it includes representatives from the United Auto Workers, Caesar Chavez' Farm Workers Union, the Isaac Walton League, the Audubon Society and the Sierra Club.

Their petition asks Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Rusk to bar immediately use of DDT by suspending and canceling its registration.

Udell said "I expect that Secretary Rusk and Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert H. Fitch will give this the same kind of attention they did the herbicide and cyclamate problems."

Udell, using baseball terms, called government action Thursday on sharply limiting use of a powerful insecticide "a solid single, while the action taken on cyclamate was a solid double."

"Banning DDT would be a home run," he said.

Griffin Lists Reasons Judge OK Opposed

ANN ARBOR (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert F. Griffin, R-Mich., said Friday he believes the Senate has a "co-equal responsibility" along with the President in dealing with presidential nominations to the federal judiciary.

He said the judiciary can be independent only if it owes no more obligation to one than the other.

Griffin also reiterated his reasons for opposing the Supreme Court nomination of Judge Clement Haynsworth.

In an address to the board of visitors at the University of Michigan Law School, Griffin said he does not strictly apply the principle of "co-equal" responsibility to all presidential nominations.

The Senate should allow a President great leeway in dealing with cabinet nominations, he said.

Griffin, the Senate minority whip, said about his opposition to Haynsworth that "I think it is a little awkward that on one of the first great issues in this administration, I'm one of the strays."

He noted, however, that Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Senate majority leader, had no hesitancy in opposing President Johnson's Vietnam policies. He called Mansfield a "great senator."

Griffin said there was a historic precedent for arguing the Senate has a special responsibility to avoid "rubberstamping" presidential nominations for the judiciary.

The nation's founders at one time considered writing the Constitution to give the Senate rather than the President power to nominate judges, he said.

"In the wake of the Fortas debate, the Senate is taking its advice and consent role more seriously," Griffin said.

Griffin led the successful fight last year against the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice of the United States.

The Michigan senator jokingly referred to former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who Griffin defeated for the Senate seat, as Griffin recalled he spoke in favor of Williams' nomination during the Johnson Administration to become ambassador to the Philippines.

"I wished him a good career on the other side of the world," Griffin said, adding that Williams wrote him and recalled that another prominent American who once served in the Philippines had stated "I shall return."

Griffin said Williams has returned now and he guesses some people are happier to see him back than others.

Man Survives 260-Foot Plunge

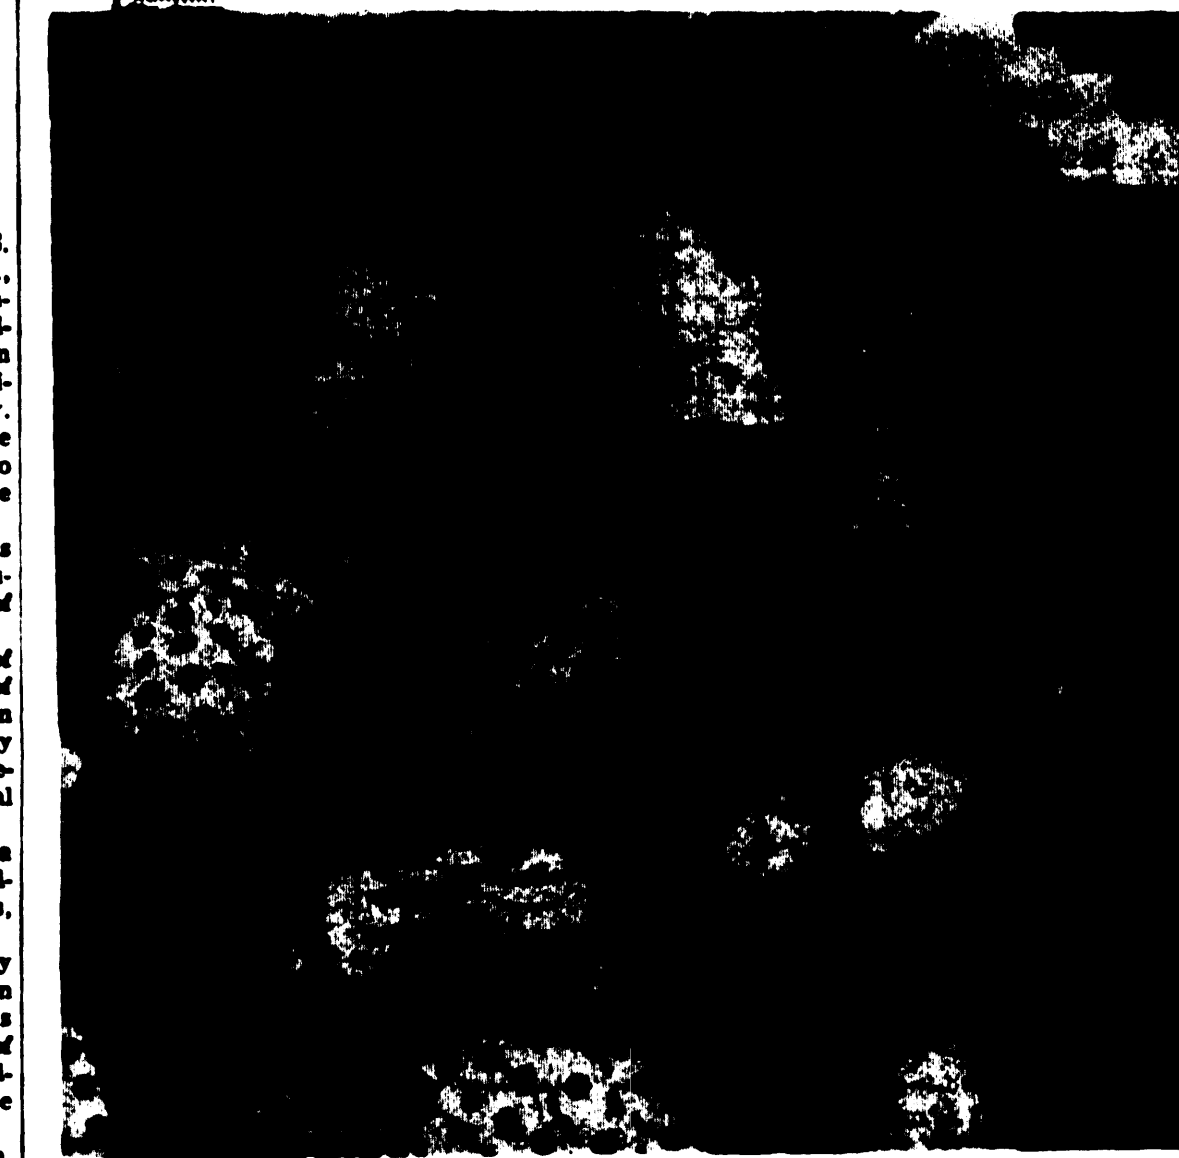

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A man who leaped from the Golden Gate bridge Friday is the fifth known to have survived the 260-foot plunge.

The man, said he was Ama "Jester" Fleming, 31, of Chicago. He was listed in serious condition at Letterman General Hospital with internal injuries and a fractured ankle.

A hospital spokesman said Fleming offered no explanation for his bridge leap.

A fishing boat crew rescued Fleming and took him to the Coast Guard station at Fort Point.

CINDY SIDBECK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Sidbeck, 802 S. 17th St., is intent on grabbing the elusive apple Friday night at the John Lemmer School Halloween Carnival.

AMONG THE attractive costumes at the Lemmer School carnival were the clown's outfit worn by Debbie Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Anderson, 225 S. 25th St., and the coat and hat outfit of Linda Thorsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Thorsen, 1117 Willow Creek Road.

Bike, Rat And Autos Figure In Friday Mishaps

Two persons were injured, neither seriously, in traffic mishaps in Escanaba on Halloween, and a boy was bitten on the finger by a rat he was attempting to capture, city police reported today.

Jim Potter, 14, of 920 5th Ave. S., suffered a bruised right hip and ankle when the bike he was riding collided with a car driven by William E. Peterson, 25, of 320 S. 9th St. The accident occurred at S. 10th St. and 2nd Ave. S. at 6 p.m.

Officers reported the boy was riding a bike without lights on the wrong side of the street.

Margaret Niles, 20, of 425 S. 16th St., passenger in a car driven by Susan I. Johnson, 304 S. 18th St., was slightly hurt in an accident at 14th and Ludington Sts. at 10:40 a.m.

The other car was driven by Glenn Hemminger of Allen, Mich., who received from police a traffic court summons for failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

The rat bite incident occurred at 11:20 p.m. in the 900 block of Stephenson Ave. when Maynard Bajaner, 11, and a companion were trying to capture the rodent. The rat was beaten to death by the boys and the body is being sent to the state laboratory for analysis to determine if it is rabid. They boy was treated at St. Francis Hospital and released.

Briefly Told

The tanker Meteor was stuck for a time on Friday in clearing from the Shell Oil Co. marine terminal on the north bay shore of Escanaba. A tug was summoned from Sturgeon Bay and the Meteor was freed and on her way to Coebogyan, Mich., by 4:45 p.m. She was undamaged.

Viet Cong Document Tells War Strategy

SAIGON (AP) — A document from the Viet Cong high command says President Nixon's plan for gradual disengagement of American forces from Vietnam is doomed to failure, sources disclosed Saturday.

The document, a major policy statement adopted last July by COSVN—Central Office for South Vietnam—calls for a major military, political and diplomatic campaign to ruin Nixon's plans for disengagement and Vietnamization of the war.

The document is now in the hands of allied intelligence officers, but how they obtained it is not known.

The policy statement says Nixon's plans to withdraw American troops while building up South Vietnamese forces will fail for these reasons:

—American troops will become more vulnerable to attack as their number diminishes.

—The U.S. withdrawal will weaken South Vietnamese armed forces to the point of collapse.

—In efforts to minimize casualties, the United States will be forced into an accelerated pullout, thus not allowing enough time for the South Vietnamese to build up to full strength.

—Nixon does not speed up the withdrawal of U.S. troops, antiwar demonstrations will increase, straining relations between Washington and the Saigon government to the breaking point.

The resolution anticipates the possibility that in the process of redeployment, U.S. forces will suffer such heavy casualties that the United States will be forced to seek a political solution to end the war—including a cease-fire. During the long period between the cease-fire and the withdrawal of the last American combat troops, there will be an intense political battle for control of South Vietnam, the resolution says.

The policy statement also cautions that if the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese do not apply enough military pressure, the United States will be able to overcome its troubles at least temporarily and prolong the war.

The statement indicated a departure, at least in part, from such previous tactics as attempting to seize Saigon and other major cities. It said that instead Viet Cong troops should concentrate their strength in the countryside, with emphasis on the fertile Mekong Delta, where one-third of South Vietnam's 17 million people live.

Judge Declines Comment Over Estate Dealing

PONTIAC (AP) — Judge James S. Thorburn of Oakland County Circuit Court has declined comment on whether he might resign as co-administrator of a $34 million estate under a new law.

A state law which takes effect today gives judges acting as administrators in estates until May 1, 1970, to withdraw from either their judgeships or connections with estates.

Thorburn was appointed Oct. 7, 1966, as co-administrator of the estate of James M. Robbins, wealthy Royal Oak industrialist killed in the crash of his private plane Sept. 26, 1966. Thorburn also was named one of six trustees of the estate.

"I have an obligation to the estate on one hand and to the Probate Court on the other. I just can't comment," Thorburn said.

Thorburn has filed reports with the Oakland County Probate Court, saying he has received $425,000 in fees for his work on the estate.

As a trustee, he receives fees for supervising income-producing properties which will remain in the estate after it is probated. Amount of these fees depends upon the size of the estate after federal taxes are paid and on the amount of time and work devoted by a trustee to the estate.

Thorburn's salary as a circuit judge is $30,000 a year. He was appointed to the bench in 1963 by then-Gov. George Romney.

Thorburn was associated, as a lawyer and friend, with Robbins for almost 30 years before the industrialist was killed.

Chicago Schools Disorder Scene

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 200 youngsters were arrested, teachers were beaten and attendance dropped drastically during three days of violence in schools on the South and West sides of Chicago.

Thirty-five youths were arrested Friday around Gage Park High School on the South-west Side after noon recess brought fights in the surrounding area between black and white pupils.

Four young persons were arrested when clashes erupted after a football game between Kelly and Harper high schools on the University of Chicago's Stagg Field.

Police said that disturbance apparently was not caused by racial antagonisms, but rather by the intense football rivalry between the two schools.

They blamed the high absenteeism on a rumor that the schools would be closed because of the earlier disturbances.

At Farragut High School, violence blamed by police on a gang rivalry led to the arrest Thursday of 40 persons. School officials said police continued to patrol the halls at Farragut Friday and broke up several scattered melees. They said attendance returned to normal after being down Wednesday and Thursday.

A football game between Lindblom and Chicago Vocational high schools in another sector of the city was the setting of a melee Thursday. Some 3,000 youngsters spilled into the street after the game and fighting broke out over a four-block area.

A total of 146 persons were arrested Thursday in disturbances at seven schools. Police arrested 37 persons in disturbances at Crane and Gage Park high schools Wednesday.

At Crane Friday, officials said classes were attended by only half the 5,500 students enrolled.

"There is no one cause," said Julien Drayton, associate superintendent of schools. "However, if you're looking in broad terms, for common denominators, today's students are going to be heard and communities are going to be heard. This kind of thing is worldwide."

Sociologist Hans W. Mattick, codirector of the University of Chicago's Center for Studies in Criminal Justice said such troubles stemmed from the fact that "young people ... feel excluded."

Area Students Feted By NMU

MARQUETTE — Twenty-seven Northern Michigan University students, who are listed in this year's edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," will be honored at a dinner program Sunday at Lapeer's Mather Inn.

The program for this year's Who's Who banquet will be conducted by the recipients of the award.

These students were selected by a faculty and student committee at Northern on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, participation in campus affairs, contribution to the University and promise of future productivity as a citizen in the community.

Delta County students listed include: Lori Valencic, senior, Gladstone; Cynthia Ann Safford, senior, Rapid River; Dennis Callahan, graduate student, Rapid River; Jon Lemmle, junior, Garden.

Halloween Fun

Halloween comes but once a year and it was a standoff in Escanaba today whether or not in a showdown vote on whether or not to do it again tomorrow the pooped parents and teachers or the excited youngsters would win.

The younger set — although a light rain tended to cramp their style — invaded the city on the annual "Trick or Treat" campaign Friday night, coming home with sacks of goodies and the start of next summer's toothaches, before heading for school carnivals sponsored by PTA and Home & School organizations in cooperation with teaching staffs.

Parents, meanwhile, were busy answering the raps on their doors from the armies of costumed pirates, but the "treats" of candy and fruit passed out pretty well negated the "tricks" on their property.

The only serious vandalism reported to Escanaba Police was at Holy Name High School, where officers said orange paint was sprayed on outside walls. The word "Eskey" was written in one place. Officers said some windows at the school and in other locations in the city were waxed or soiled.

Halloween customs and superstitions have gathered through the ages. The day is named because it is the eve of the festival of All Saints, but many of the traditions of the day began long before the Christian era in autumn festivals. The ancient Druids had a three-day celebration, for example, at the beginning of November and on the eve before the celebration believed spirits of the dead roamed. They lighted bonfires to drive them away.

Through the years, Halloween has evolved into a "night of mystery" and fun making.

School carnivals preserve many of the early customs with "spook rooms" and bobbing for apples still among the favorite activities.

Most carnivals in the area also featured costume contests, picture-taking and various other games and activities.

Court Consolidation Slated In Nov. 4 Vote

Schoolcraft County voters will decide if the Probate Courts of Alger and Schoolcraft County should be consolidated into one Probate Court District when they ballot at the polls next Tuesday, Nov. 4.

Voters in both counties must approve the merger in order for the proposal to carry. Voters in 42 of the 45 counties in the northern portion of Lower Michigan and the Upper Peninsula will be deciding the issue which would merge the present individual courts into 20 districts.

If approved, the two-county District Probate Court would become effective Jan. 1, 1971 and would be staffed by a judge elected in the fall of 1970.

Non-attorney Probate Judges now serving would be eligible as a candidate for district probate judge. All other candidates must be attorneys.

The proposal is a result of P. A. 271 of 1969 which Gov. William Milliken approved last August. Under provisions of the merger, Probate Judges would be paid $20,000 annual salary with $15,000 paid by the state and the remaining $5 per cent shared by the two-county district on a population basis.

Both Schoolcraft County Probate Judge John S. Faherty and Alger County Probate Judge John M. Fawer have declared against the merger. They base their objections on a possible curtailment of service with one judge serving two counties, no additional benefits of service and uncertain financial cost to the district.

Advocates of the plan point out that the salary consideration is great enough to attract persons with legal training and thus provide the counties with professional service; full-time judges with full-time pay would provide better services to the counties; a more streamlined court system, in general, and a higher quality of justice would result, they say.

Schoolcraft County polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. City voters may ballot at the Lincoln School, first precinct; Youth Center, second precinct; and City Hall, third precinct. In the townships, polls will be set up at the Township Hall with the exception of Doyle where voters will ballot at the Doyle School.

U.P. Sanitarians Set Manistique Meet Nov. 5-6

Upper Peninsula Sanitarians will be in Manistique Nov. 5 and 6 for a training session to standardize restaurant inspection procedures, according to host Sanitarian Boyd Briggs of the Alger-Schoolcraft Health Department.

Two certified and qualified inspectors from the State Department of Public Health will present information on inspection procedures. The new procedures will conform with a new state law covering such inspections.

Briggs said about 14 sanitarians would be here for the sessions which will be held at the Firehouse Inn.

Church Events

St. Alban's Episcopal
The Luther League will be collecting clothing for the Lutheran World Relief on Monday between the hours of 7 and 8:15 p.m. As many parish homes as possible will be visited. The drive this year is concerned with clothing, blankets, quilts and adult clothing to be out up to make bedding.

The Women's Executive Committee will meet Tuesday, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m. in Augustana Hall for their November meeting.

St. Alban's Episcopal
Rev. Cannon J. William Robertson will tell about his recent trip to England and Scotland when he speaks to the Women of St. Alban's on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the church undercroft. Pistons Obtain Seattle Forward

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Pistons General Manager Ed Oll said he wanted a big man and Friday night he got one.

The Pistons acquired 6-foot-8 forward Ervin Mueller from the Seattle SuperSonics in exchange for a second-round draft choice next year.

Mueller is in his fourth NBA season. Mueller was drafted by Chicago in 1968, traded to Los Angeles in 1967, traded back to Chicago at the start of last season and sent to Seattle at mid-year.

He had his best season as a rookie with the Bulls, when he averaged 12.7 points a game.

Though the Battle of Bull Run was a Union fiasco, no fewer than 66 Northern officers who saw action there were or would become generals, according to the National Geographic Society book, The Civil War. They included an industry colonel named William Tecumseh Sherman and a 21-year-old cavalryman named George Armstrong Custer.

Monica Weber DECA Office Candidate

Monica Weber, cooperative distributive education student at the Manistique High School and a member of the local chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA), will be a candidate for the office of vice president of the State DECA Association.

Monica's name was placed on the ballot after the application and references were accepted by the state DECA executive council and after she had successfully passed a written test on club information and parliamentary procedure.

Accompanied by Michael Powell, president of the local DECA chapter, and Miss Helen Jean Volsine, club sponsor, she will attend the DECA Delegates Congress at St. Mary's Lake, Battle Creek, Nov. 14-15. She will distribute campaign materials being prepared by members of the local club and will deliver a speech to the delegates at the Conference.

Monica is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weber, Tannery Rd. Powell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ransom Powell RFD 1.

Cast Is Chosen For School Play

The cast for the play "Vacation on the Moon" which will be presented Nov. 12 at the Manistique High School auditorium has been announced by Mrs. Earl H. LeBresneur, director.

The one act contemporary skit has Cindy Frenette, Bernice Beaudry, Ray Doris, Rob Moffat and Donna Carlson in its cast. The play deals with an evaluation of life in the past and the educational needs of the next generation.

The public is invited to the free presentation being produced by the MHS Drama Club in cooperation with the library and the Manistique Community School in observance of National Education Week. A special invitation is being extended to the Senior Citizens and adults enrolled in the basic education and enrichment classes that meet regularly on Wednesday nights at the high school.

On the same evening, the Community School will sponsor a Study Center in the library with teacher Earl Williamson in attendance to help students with their school work. The library proper will also be open that evening from 6 to 8 p.m. with Mrs. Robert Weber in charge.

The library will also distribute pamphlets during National Education Week. Available will be, "Ways the School Library Helps Your Child," "How Can I Help My Child Learn To Read?" "Lifetime Sports for Every Student," and "What About a Year-Round School?"

Hospital

Admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital Thursday were Beth Hart, Arbutus Trombley, Arthur Jasmin, Madge Carr, Harold Beaton, Harriet Mueselmann and Judith Misunas.

Discharged were Bernard Landis, Gordon Hamill, Ruth Eakley, Barbara Fisk and baby, Joseph Duchene and Mary Kralik.

The most important ingredient in any house layout is its circulation — the relationship of one room to other rooms. It determines whether the residents will have good or poor day-to-day living. This is especially true and more difficult to achieve in a small house than in one which can be spread out in several directions on a large lot.

Many years ago, it cost a dime to light up one of those old 100-watt carbon filament lamps for about 10 hours.

In those days, years ago, that dime would have purchased a half-dozen oranges, a loaf of bread or nearly a gallon of gasoline!

Nowadays, operating an electric lamp costs less—and we get more light from the lamp—while the cost of nearly everything else has skyrocketed. Lower rates and efficient service have encouraged you to use more electricity. As a result, the electricity you are using while you read this message costs just less than it did 50 years ago.

Dangers Should Spur New Capitol: Milliken

By DON BORNHILL
Press Staff Writer

LANSING — Gov. William Milliken today said the dangerous condition of the present 20-year-old state capitol adds "a sense of urgency to the construction of a new building."

He said the present building should be renovated for ceremonial and historical purposes but that Michigan's government needs more.

Milliken, who has known the capitol as a senator and lieutenant governor and governor since 1961 as did his father, James, 25 years before as a senator, said he has known of the safety warnings by fire marshals.

"I am aware that the fire marshals have raised serious questions over the years about the safety of the capitol," he said. "With this awareness, it was clear that we should make plans for a new capitol."

"Even if we were to renovate and enlarge the present building, we would still have a capitol that would be inadequate to meet the needs of Michigan, entirely apart from the safety angle."

Precautions Taken
Milliken disputed the claims of state and city fire marshals, stating that a number of safety precautions have been taken at their recommendation.

"But the situation gives the whole proposition of a new capitol a sense of urgency," Milliken said. "There are fire hazards, particularly on the fourth floor."

It is on the fourth floor that the Legislative Service Bureau, with 50 or more employees, drafts all the bills for the legislature, and where now former office space for house members is being converted into committee meeting rooms.

Milliken said he feels the present capitol can be salvaged, but only for ceremonial and historical purposes. He is not sold on any of the major architectural designs and has an open mind on them all.

"Precisely how it will be designed, that is the problem they—we have to deal with," he said.

Proud of Group
The governor is proud of the Committee of 21, ten legislators, 10 outstanding citizens in the field of design whom he appointed to work on the problem. He is the 21st member, and Chairman.

"They're really a talented, high caliber group," he said. "They're going to perform very well."

To the objections of businessmen that the new capitol site two blocks west will take the state employee buying power away from downtown stores, Milliken said:

"Actually, there will be relatively few people in the new capitol. The real buying power is in the state office buildings which are already in the complex (a block west and two blocks south)."

Tradition dies hard, even in Lansing where sometimes cynicism is worn like a badge. Forces inside and outside of government would like to see the present capitol—Michigan's third—kept and renovated, as a museum, as a place for inaugural ceremonies; as Michigan's nod to its heritage.

The first was in Detroit's Capitol Park, in the heart of the city, its place in history preserved in a statue. The site is now a DSR bus station where muggers have been known to tarry. Michigan's second capitol, a block south-east of the present site, is a dime store with a plaque on the north wall commemorating the first capitol in Lansing.

Monument to Government
The present capitol was better planned as a monument to government. It looks east on Michigan avenue as though screening its problems but accepting them all as they come.

On its front walk stands the statue of Gov. Austin Blair, the Civil War governor whose papers still recall from the archives how he promoted and disciplined officers in the Michigan militia fighting the war.

Milliken, to whom history means much, said:

"I hope and expect that the present capitol will be renovated to the extent that it will be preserved for ceremonial functions."

Credit Card Okay For Paying Taxes

NEW YORK (AP) — There's one more thing some Americans can take care of with a credit card now—some of their taxes.

In Arkansas, starting Dec. 1, residents will be able to pay their state taxes with a BankAmericard.

In seven states, some counties will accept credit cards for property taxes and in at least five other states, motorists in some counties can pay their automobile registration fees and taxes with credit cards.

Pilot Program
In California, the Bank of America has had a pilot program since 1967 in some counties for property tax payment with BankAmericard and is launching a new program in all 58 counties.

The tax is to be added to the taxpayer's regular credit card bill. If the individual settles up within 30 days of billing, all it costs is the postage. After that he'll pay the normal interest charge on a cash advance, which amounts to a true annual rate of 18 per cent, a BankAmericard official said. For example, he said, a man charging a $100 tax bill to his credit card and repaying at $10 a month will end up paying a total of $107.42.

Banks Will Pay
The tax collectors will get their money right away from the banks, which assume responsibility for collection later. Credit card operators across the country apparently expect to make money through interest charges, not on discounts as they do with commercial purchases where a merchant pays a percentage of the sale price. No charges to government units were found in a survey.

Interest Rates High
But in Vermont, State Tax Commissioner Lawrence Wright said:

"The citizens would have to be out of his mind to want to risk paying 15-20 per cent interest on his taxes with a credit card when the statutory limit on tax interest for delinquencies is only 6 per cent in Vermont."

This latest extension of the credit card into American life reaches farthest in Arkansas. There, the residents will be able to say "charge it" to their state income tax, automobile registration, driver's license or the sales tax on a car.

Charges of up to $50 will be accepted by Arkansas without checking individual credit ratings. Over that, the credit card bank will have to verify the credit and guarantee payment.

A spokesman said the system would be a convenience to the taxpayer and reduce the bad check problem.

Coretta King Begins Detroit Campaign Tour

DETROIT (AP) — Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., campaigned this week on behalf of Detroit mayoral candidate Richard H. Austin. She urged his election "to prove to a divided nation that ability and experience count for something."

Mrs. King pinned an "Austin" campaign button to her coat and told about 700 persons at a $50-a-plate fund-raising reception that the Nov. 4 city election "will represent a crucial test of the democratic experiment."

The widow of the civil rights leader slain in Memphis, Tenn., in 1968 described Austin, a Negro who is running against Sheriff Roman S. Gribbs, as "the one man who can unite this city, black people and white people together, and guide them toward a new future of progress, peace and justice."

Mrs. King said she was invited to come to Detroit by U.S. Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich. Conyers introduced her at the reception as "the first lady of this land."

Gas, License Take Record $374.2 Million

LANSING (AP) — State gasoline taxes and license plate fees produced a record $374.2 million income for the state during the past fiscal year, the State Highway Department reports.

This was an increase of 20.7 per cent over the previous fiscal year.

Department director Henrik Stafseth said the increase mostly was due to the hike in gas and vehicle weight taxes enacted by the legislature in 1967.

The gas tax was increased from six to seven cents a gallon. The weight tax went from 25 to 55 cents per hundredweight.

The gas tax produced $284.6 million during the past fiscal year, up 15.9 per cent. License fees produced $114.5 million, an increase of 33.7 per cent. Other miscellaneous revenues added up to $5 million.

Deducted from the total were collection costs of $9.6 million. Another $2.6 million was diverted to the State Waterways Commission.

Net revenue for distribution to the state, counties and municipalities was $337.4 million, an increase of 19 per cent over the previous fiscal year.

The highway department received $16.4, the counties shared $121.5 million and cities and villages shared $71.4 million.

Openings In Air Traffic Control Jobs Announced

The Federal Aviation Administration has immediate openings for trainee air traffic controllers in Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit and Indianapolis. Two years of college or two years experience that demonstrated potential for learning air traffic control work is required. There will be a written aptitude test on Dec. 2.

Trainees will get $400 a month during six months training to be given at Oklahoma City and a raise to $610 a month after six months. Jobs are in federal civil service and offer equal employment opportunity. Blacks, Indians and persons from other minority groups are urged to apply. For more information, contact John V. Olinger, Escanaba Post Office before Nov. 21.

Solon Suggests Separate State Education Board

LANSING (AP) — A State Representative and former career professor is proposing the creation of an independent state board for public community and junior colleges.

Rep. William Weber, R-Kalamazoo, says he will introduce a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution to abolish the State Board for Public Community and Junior Colleges, now functioning only as an advisory group to the State Board of Education.

The same resolution would create the new and independent board.

"The State Board of Education is busy enough with our K-12 program and should not have the added burden of administering our junior and community programs," Weber said.

The resolution asks that the new board be established with seven members as of Feb. 1, 1971. If the resolution is approved by the Legislature, the issue would go before the voters on the November, 1970, election ballot.

Weber proposed that the board be appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate. The number of members on the board from one political party would be limited to four.

Zoning Needed To Keep Trailers In Proper Place

LANSING (AP) — Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley reported that a city, village or township may confine mobile homes trailers to established trailer parks, but only through specific zoning ordinances.

Through proper ordinances, Kelley found, a community could, in effect, bar trailers from residential areas.

Answering a request by Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, Kelley said he believes communities may bar the use or occupancy of a mobile home as a residence even though it meets other residential zoning requirements.

However, Kelley said, zoning ordinances would have to refer specifically to mobile homes because "the physical, and hence the legal, characteristics of a mobile home are distinctive and distinguish it from other residences."

Company Aims Guns At Kelley

LANSING (AP) — An attorney for Holiday Magic, Inc. has charged Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley with using "smear and hate tactics" to try and put the California cosmetic firm out of business in Michigan.

Kelley obtained a temporary injunction against the firm in Ingham County Circuit Court. He termed the firm's activities "a pyramided franchise operation" and said it violated the Michigan lottery law, the deceptive advertising statute, the General Corporation Act, the uniform securities act, the restraint of trade act and other state statutes.

James Rohde said Kelley "has seem fit to injure or destroy the incomes of thousands of Michigan citizens without even giving them the right to be heard."

Rohde added he was going to see if there was some way to get around the Michigan governmental immunity statutes to sue the attorney general for defamatory statements.

Kelley said Holiday Magic had been operating throughout Michigan with the heaviest emphasis in the Detroit area. He said the states of California and Illinois are taking similar legal action against the firm.

The attorney general said he would seek damages from the firm for the purpose of paying injured Michigan citizens.

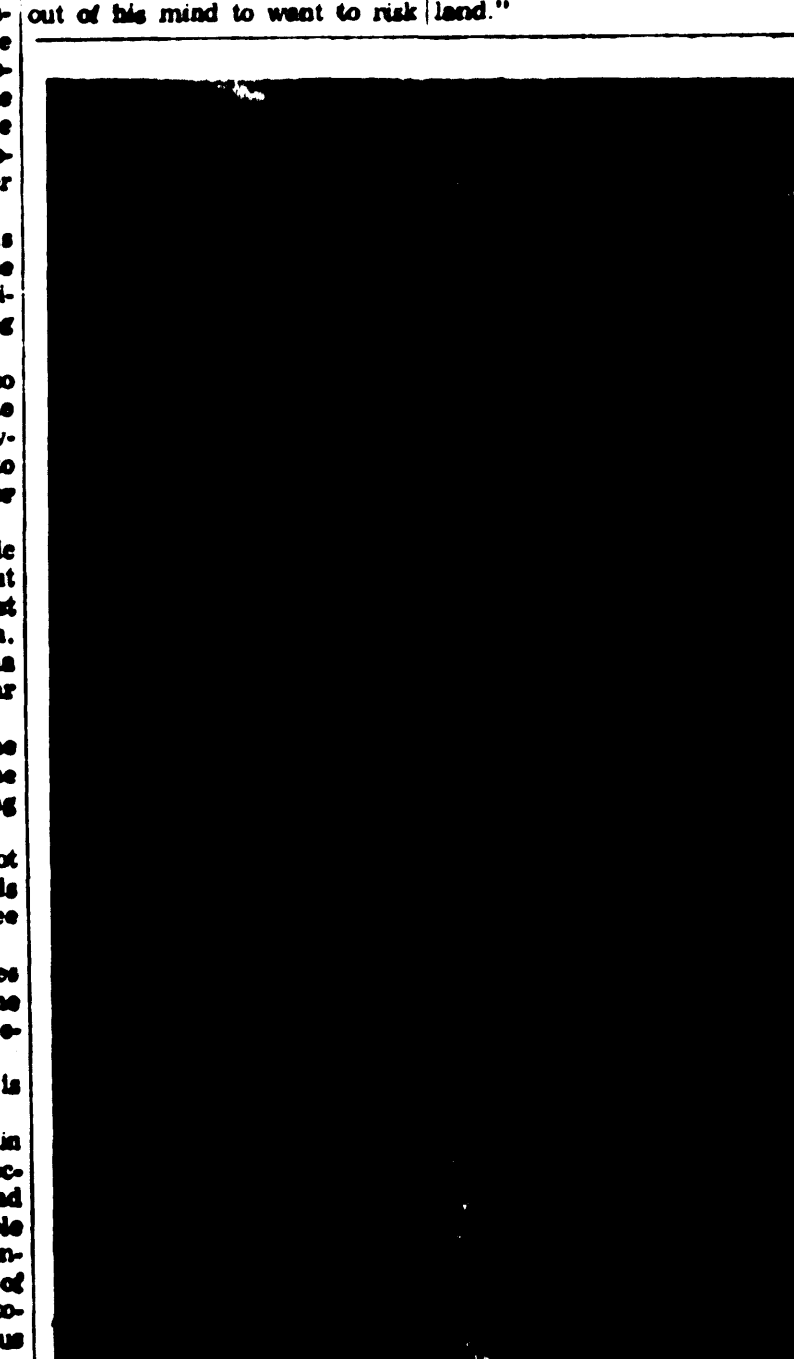

Rohde said the firm does not guarantee success to individuals but "is the ultimate in the free enterprise system."

He said Kelley, in his charges "is throwing everything but the kitchen sink at us, hoping something will stick in court."

A hearing on the suit is scheduled for Nov. 10.

Judge Marvin Salomon said in granting the temporary injunction that the cosmetic firm had "aided and abetted multiple crimes," caused "economic injury" and through violations of cosmetics laws, exposed customers "to the risks of contagious disease."

Rohde replied he had handled all product liability problems for the firm for more than one and one-half years and that "there have been no claims for contagious or infectious disease."

Inmate Claims 'Lion-Taming' Tactics Used

IONIA (AP) - An inmate of Ionia State Hospital testified in court Friday that three hospital attendants, carrying chairs "like lion tammers," rushed on him and severely beat him.

Jack E. Leeper Jr., 24, who was committed June 28, 1968, as a criminal sexual psychopath, told Circuit Judge Leo Bebeau of Ionia County that he was knocked down, kicked and beaten.

Leeper is seeking an injunction to restrain attendants from beating any inmates.

Leeper, of Fort Collins, Colo., was committed to the hospital rather than face prosecution on a rape charge in Barry County. He testified that he was first struck by attendant Jesse Kapp after returning to a television room, despite an order to go to bed, to get a cup of coffee he had forgotten. Leeper said he offered no resistance to the alleged beating, which he said occurred Aug. 4, 1968.

Bebeau said at the start of the hearing that he would not consider releasing Leeper and that criminal charges could not be brought against the attendants in this hearing.

Two Reformatory Escapees Caught

IONIA (AP) - Two escapees are back behind lock and key in the Ionia State Reformatory after 18 hours of freedom.

State Police recaptured the convicts Friday in an abandoned farm house six miles south of the maximum security prison.

Recaptured were Giles Carl Atkins, 21, of South Lyon, and Roy H. Taylor, 21, of Benton Harbor. Atkins was serving a term of five to 30 years for kidnapping and pistol-whipping a Novi policeman, Robert Starnes, in the summer of 1968. Taylor was serving a sentence of four to five years for larceny.

When he was sentenced last February, Atkins told Starnes, "There isn't a jail or prison strong enough to hold me. I wish I would have killed you when I had the chance. But I'll still kill you. I'll get out and kill you."

When he learned that Atkins had been taken back into custody, Starnes said, "I'm so relieved. Ionia isn't that far away and we have six children. Starnes then allowed his children to go trick-or-treating, adding that he had planned to "keep them in because it would have been too dangerous."

Plan Lawsuits To Challenge Parochial Plan

LANSING (AP) - Ernest Maney, executive director of the Michigan branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, says a series of lawsuits are being prepared to challenge the concept of parochialism.

Maney has told the Lansing chapter of the Citizens of Advanced Public Education (CAPE) that the Michigan ACLU is preparing to file lawsuits against some of seven local school districts in the state providing what he calls "bootleg" parochialism.

Maney said most of them within the past year developed programs under which public school teachers are assigned to certain nonpublic school classrooms—in most cases Catholic—to teach nonreligious subjects.

"In these situations, parochial school children walk through the door to an algebra class and suddenly they become public school students. There is no legal authority for this," Maney said.

To carry out his aims, Maney said the Michigan ACLU is raising a $50,000 "war chest" for initial legal expenses. CAPE and other interested groups are the major contributors.

Gov. William Milliken's education reform package includes a recommendation of $25 million direct state aid to defray non-public teachers' salaries next year.
